I've been hanging out in an old forgotten bar
Just watching out the window as the locals pass me by Hoping they'd stop to listen to every word in every song
Not caring who I am or where I'm from

But I don't sing for the masses or the crowds
I just sing the songs that come out of my mouth
But if you'd like I can sing a song for you
If it's Johnny Cash or Waylon or the blues

So, raise a glass if you don't mind the sound
Of some drunken fool just tryin' to buy himself another round
Sometimes it's just that easy, sometimes it's just that hard
Sometimes the drinks taste better in an old forgotten bar

But the devil's hit the bottle once again
So, pour one out for my brothers on the other side of down
And hold your head up high, 'cause you lead a blessed life
When your cup is full of nothing you get by

I'm wasting time just waiting for the night
'Cause that hanging moon's the only thing that seems to bring me life
The prairie skies lay open wide, the dirt roads never end
When tomorrow comes, I'll waste away again

So, raise a glass if you don't mind the sound
Of some drunken fool just tryin' to buy himself one last round
Sometimes it's just that easy, sometimes it's just that hard
Sometimes the drinks taste better in an old forgotten bar
